MR, BENJAMIN F. LADD. Sudden Death of This Respected Gentleman.

Mr. Benjamin F. Ladd, of the whole ale drug house of Purcell, Ladd & Co., died very suddenly at 8 o'clock last night of heart-disease.

Mr. Ladd was at the store during the day, but said nothing of feeling unwell so far as can now be remembered, but he was an uncomplaining man, and, when known to be suffering, would where Jones is no one (who cares to totell) knows. There is a reward of $250 for his apprehension.

The reason that he is looked for is that he is a defaulter. The reason that the suit has been instituted here is that Jones owns a house and lot on Broad atreet near Monroe valued at $3,000.

He was a bank teller in Careda, and Scuars to his home, on the north side been to walk through the Capitol Square to his home, on the north side of Clay street between Ninth and Tenth. The deceased entered the drug busi ness as a clerk in the store of Mr. Adie. In 1847 he formed a co-partnership with John and James Purcell, and the house continues to this day—now as Purcell, Ladd & Co.—and he was regular and unremitting in the duties of the store. He was a man of fine sense, but was exceedingly retiring in his manners. His goodness was, however, well appreciated by the community, and he was by all who knew him regarded as one of the was the manners of Fighrand's extracts. Mr. Wallace rose and asked to be excused from speaking just then. He had been unwell for several days, and hoped he would be permitted to keep his seat. Mr. E. M. Roscher, president of Fulton Democratic Club, was then in-troduced by Mr. Conner. He said he was not a candidate, but he desired to call the attention of his hearers to one point, and that was what material the Fulton Club was composed of Anybody could see that it contained no bondholders or millionaires, but men whose faces showed that they were willing to fight to victory. His club was in favor of good government in the hands of white people, and when the day of election came the white men would be found in a solid Democratic column. In conclusion Mr. Roscher presented Mr. Conner with a badge of Fulton Club, which he accepted in fitting terms. CAPTAIN O'BANNON.

Captain J. H. O'Bannon next spoke. He said he was a candidate for the House. He was a Democrat-nothing more and nothing less. He was a Democrat because the Demowas a Democrat because the Demo-cratic party was of the people; all the best government had been had under the Democratic party, and it had stood from the time of Jefferson to the present day. If the Republican party carried the coming election Mahone, of course, would have to reward his followers, and in a very short while colored men would be walking our streets with police uniforms on and swinging clubs in their hands. Dick swinging claus in their hands. Diese Walker would very likely take Davie Bichardson's place, and Hubard, who was so serry he had to fight against the poor men who came from across the Potomac-("may Heaven's lightning blast my tongue before I would ever say such a thing," parenthetically ex-claimed the speaker)—well, he would probably be judge of the Hustings

The speech was loudly applauded. MB. HASKINS.

Mr. Meade Haskins was next introduced. He referred, in the beginning of his remarks, to the Democratic party—the party which though it had been asleep for over twenty years was now wide awake and was striking telling belows at every wrong and every france. now wide awake and was striking telling blows at every wrong and every fraud in the land. Continuing he said Grover Cleveland would be re-elected. Demo-cracy had hold of the reins of the National Government and the State government, too, and would hold them. Virginia to-day has one of the grandest Governors that she ever had.

Hon. HeL. Carter next spoke for a se sed few minutes. He was a Democrat and had always been one. He favored changes in offices, but if they were to be made they should be made inside of the Democratic ranks.

MR. TYLER. The next speaker was Mr. Lyon G. Tyler. After alluding to the Republi-can party he remarked that he desired to say a few words to the Independent party. How could such a party exist? Why, the State was covered with carcasses of such organizations. It was not possible for such a party to live. Every question had only two sides, and an independent party was a political what-is-it?

Mr. Tyler was followed by Messra. R. M. S. Valentine and I. T. Wallace, after which the meeting adjourned.

Postmaster Cullingworth, Hon. J.
Taylor Ellyson, Mr. C. V. Meredith,
Mr. J. Bandolph Tucker, Jr., and Alterman Davis were present at the meet-

As the audience was leaving the hall young man named Phil. Harris, who and interrupted one of the speakers, became engaged in a tustle with a member of the Fulton Club, but they were instantly parted.

The Pythian Visitors. Yesterday the Supreme Chanceller of the World, Howard Douglas, and Grand Chanceller of Virginia Thomas II. Virnelson were shown various points of interest around the city by a committee of Pythians composed of Messrs. Richardson, Crump, Teller, Cosby, Hill, Evensen, Woody, and Groomes. The visitors left the city in the evening for their homes.

Fatal Railroad Accident in Dakota.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., September 20. A Canton (Dakota) special to the Jour-St. Faul road ran into the rear of a freight train at 4 o'clock this morning three miles east of here. The freight was switching at Inwood, Iowa, and the rear part breaking loose, tore down grade toward Canton for several miles, finally colliding with the passenger train. The following were killed: Andrew Derrath, Rock Valley, Iowa, line-repairer; W. A. Ploog, McGregor, lows, engineer of the passenger train : Charles Dunbar, Mason City, Iowa, fireman. Two bodies are still in the wreck, and wrecking trains are now at work. Thirty passengers escaped un-injured. Six cars of wheat, one of cattie, one caboose, and the passenger-coaches were demolished. The trains ceaches were demolished. are now running via Rock Valley, Iowa, and Eden, Dakota. The accident oc-curred at the edge of the bridge across

A Chapter of Casualties.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch] MARQUETTE, MICH., September 20. A Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic train of six cars laden with ore got away from the trainmen last night and ran down a grade at a high rate for four miles. At the scale track, just wespof this city, the cars crashed into a side-track full of empty ore-flats. Fifty cars are piled thirty feet high Billy Mahone, conductor, is missing, and there is no doubt but that he is inder the wreck. About the same time Robert Gurney, a brakeman of the pier train, got caught between the cars and was scalped. He may live. At the same time the fire-bell rang an alarm, and it was found that the company's freight-depot in the city was in flames. The fire was put out with small loss.
